

ABSTRACT

A stent for use in treating vascular diseases disclosed herein. The stent includes a main body and an end that can be flared relative to the main body. A predefined bend
5 location is defined between the main body and the flared end.